

Justice Kow Mensah
Master's in Religious Roots of Europe, UiO

Position: Political Auditor

Dear Colleagues

I warmly welcome you to this year's National Assembly Meeting

The Constitution is our roadmap in the adventures that we take in groups, organizations and institutions. It guides and shapes our endeavours. Is the ISU Constitution comprehensive enough? This is one of the objective I will embark upon. A journey that will seek into getting a comprehensive constitutional template for ISU. This will require a collective effort and it starts from you. When you have considered me fit for the role of the Political Auditor, we will pledge our allegiance to adhering to the precepts of our constitution.

There has been much done in ensuring that both local and national adhere to constitutional principles. And there are still more to be done. ISU is growing in so many diverse ways and so are her opportunities and challenges constitutionally. A closer talk with local boards and members will give us the opportunity into understanding the WHY some constitutional issues are handled the way they are and from there we can made progress into the HOW it should for our collective benefit.

I do not bring to bear a diploma in Law or Constitutional matters but instead a rich experience in working on constitutions of Associations and groups. As a president of some institutions, the constitution has been a referential material and adhering to its tenets a must.

The first issue we will attempt to handle will be with respect to the new structure of our local branches. It is observed that, the merging of universities into a conglomerate deserves our attention constitutionally.

I am convinced, giving the opportunity to serve, we will work together to make our constitutional very friendly.

Vote Justice as your next Political Auditor in the National Board.

Cheers!